14. Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow :

As daylight can be seen through very small holes, so little things will define a person's character. Indeed character consists in little acts, well and honourably performed. One of the most important tests of character is the manner in which we conduct ourselves towards others. A graceful behaviour towards superiors, inferiors and equals, is a constant source of pleasure. It pleases others, because it indicates respect for their personality; but more than that it gives tenfold more pleasure to ourselves. Gentleness in society is compared to the silent influence of light which gives colour to all nature and it is far more powerful than any force and far more fruitful.

- (a) What shows our character best? 1
- (b) What does character consist of? 1
- (c) Give one of the most important tests of character. 1
- (d) What is good about graceful behaviour? 1
- (e) Which quality is a constant source of pleasure to all? 1
- (f) What is gentleness in society compared to? 1
